Public Not Responding to Health Clinic

Crisis in medical care? Not enough doctors? Medical costs prohibitive?

Not if one judged by the response to the County Health Department's Immunization Clinics in Monterey, according to Dr. Richard S. Fraser, Director of Public Health.

For the cost of a few minutes time and bus fare or a little gasoline, the people that may be complaining about the problem of medical care today could avoid some of them by maintaining their immunity to several communicable diseases.

"These diseases remain within us, and some are increasingly threatening" Dr. Fraser states. "They don't disaper permanently unless group immunity is kept up through vaccination. Rubeloa (red measles) with all its serious complications is on the rise, here and throughout the nation where immunization programs have lagged. Rubella (German measles), with its disastrous consequences to the the unborn child, is increasing in spite of all the publicity designed to promote vaccination. Diphtheria, whooping cough and polio always threaten to break out where group immunity has fallen, and mothers fail to bring their infants and preschoolers in for basic immunization and booster.

"We can pervent diphtheria and whooping cough and tentanue. We can pervent smallpox and polio, and measles and German measles. But the clinics are too quite these days- a quite perhaps before a storm, as the diphtheria epidemic that hit San Antonio, Texas recently.

"Newborn infants should start their shots at two to three months of age, with continuing shots on prescribed schedule up to school entry. Older persons should maintain their immunity to diphtheria, tetanus and smallpox by booster vaccination every ten years throughout life."

Regular immunization clinics are held every Wednesday morning at the Health Department building adjacent to the new court house on Aquajito Road near the freeway, 8:30 to 10:30 a.m.

Special rubella clinics are being held there every Monday afternoon after school (3:30 to 4:30 p.m.) for school children through age eleven.

Dr. Fraser urges the people to take advantage of the opportunity to keep medical costs down. "It's a lot cheaper and happier to," he states, "than to become a part of the medical crisis today."

Property Tax Rate Rises

The average property tax rate per $100 of assessed value in Monterey County this fiscal year is $9.20, which is up 33 cents, the State Board of Equalization reported recently.

Member George R. Reilly said the statewide average rose 93 cents from 1969-70 to $10.85 on an assessed value for taxation of $52.7 billion for 1970-71.

The total tax levy of $59,-156,000 in Monterey County meant $232.53 for each person.

Statewide, the per person property tax burden rose to $284 from $248.

Schools continued to take more than half of the property tax dollar -- 52 cents -- while counties took 32 cents, cities 10 cents and special district 6 cents in California.

Monterey County claimed 27 cents, the cities 8 cents, schools 60 cents and 5 cents went to special districts.

Of the county total, school districts levied a total of $35,510,000; cities $4,750,000; the county itself a total of $15,975,000 and special districts, $2,921,000.

Statewise, the property levy produced $3 billion for schools; $1.8 billion for counties; $592 million for cities and $334 million for special districts.

The $750 assessed value homeowner exemption removed nearly $2 billion in assessments from the tax roll and the 30 percent business inventory another $1 billion. But the $305 million tax loss was paid by the state.

These two partial exemptions brought the total taxable or reimbursable assessed value in the state to $55.6 billion.

Jobs For Youth Drive Announced

Lieutenant Governor Ed Reinecke, chairman of the Summer Jobs for Youth campaign, has urged the cooperation of all California employers, "large or small," in the drive to find employment for thousands of young people.

Reinecke said, in announcing the campaign, "the economic picture in the nation and particularly in California makes our work in the Summer Jobs for Youth program much more difficult.

"Thousands of young people will be exposed to the labor market for the first time during the summer of 1971 and our efforts in this campaign are designed to aid in creating a swell of job opportunities to acquaint these youthful citizens with work habits develop their vocational interests, contribute to their personal growth and to keep them gainfully occupied and related to our society."

The Lieutenant Governor, who also heads the aerospace employment task force, pointed out some of these young people must earn money in order to be able to return to school in the fall, while others help their families with summer income and still others "simply need jobs to sustain themselves."

"Our goal is to obtain productive employment for every person willing and able to work, without regard to race, color, creed or national origin. Because there is so much unemployment in all areas of our state and at all levels of our society, we feel it would be appropriate to work with with any and every agency in seeking to provide job opportunities ... in government as well as in the private sector... for all of our unemployed.

"We do need, desperately, the full and complete cooperation of all segments of business, industry and agriculture if we are to provide the needed opportunities. Potential employers can help by contacting their nearest Human Resources Development Agency with their employee requirements. Our people will take it from there."

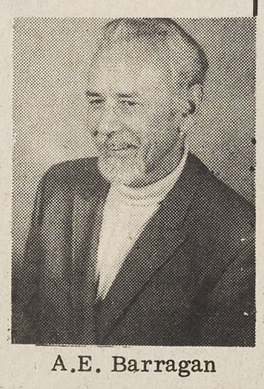
Seaside Ripples

A. E. 'Andy' Barragan, Publisher



A.E. Barragan

We spent last Sunday, Mother's Day, visiting our daugther, Carol, in San Francisco. It was one of those clear, beautiful, sunshiny days that are a joy in this part of the country. There was no cold wind or fog and a slight breeze blew away any traces there might have been of smog. It was so beautiful that we decided to take the ferry boat trip across the bay to Sausalito. The ferry boats were put back in service because the traffic situation on the Golden Gate Bridge has gotten so bad that if this service was not re-instituted, the only solution would be to build another multi-million dollar bridge to further congest traffic and to create even more air pollution.

Needless to say the trip across the bay, with the hundreds of sailboats dotting the water with their colorful billowing sails, was a delight. We sailed within throwing distance of Alcatraz and no Indians shot any arrows at us. As a matter of fact, we couldn't see any signs of life on the decaying old Rock. The ferryboat and the Rock represent an era that has past. Let's hope that we bring back the ferryboats, but not the Rock or anything that it represented. We are being forced to revive the ferryboats and the railroad passenger trains and, yes even the electric streetcars so that we can have some air to breathe in twenty years or so.

Many of us saw the street cars and ferryboats be replaced by big, shinny, cushioned motorbuses that belched exhaust fumes that almost

YOUTH IN GOVERNMENT DAY
BY Doug Hendricks

Twelve Seaside High students spent a recent day participating in the municipal government of Seaside. In recognition of Youth in Government Day, the dozen chosen students took on the roles of various city officials for the day. The day's activities included tours of various city facilities, including the police department, the fire department and the sewage treatment plant. They also conducted a mock city council meeting.

Host for the day's activities was Seaside Police Community Relations Director Terry Mangan.

Of the twelve, Bill Greenwell acted as mayor, Charles Anderson, Doug Hendricks, Elaine Russell and Virginia La Hara as councilmen; Glen Lockwood, police chief; Chris Bassett, fire chief; Melvin Fortes, city attorney; Marcia Alota, city manager; Jimmy Jorstead, recreation director; Marion Fitzgerald, city engineer and Sharon Kakimoto, assistant city engineer.

The highlight of the day was, for most, the city council meeting held in the council chambers in the City Hall. Although City Manager Milton Farrell, Councilman Gerry McGrath and Mayor Louis Haddad were notable kibbutzers from the sidelines, the students conducted most of the meeting themselves, following the regular council agenda, as well as adding several items of their own. Among the proposals were inquiries into the recreational programs of the city, proposed utlization of the Del Rey Theatre Building and a proposed hospital. Not unlike the real city council, the voting was on most issues split, with Councilmen Anderson and Hendricks opposing Mayor Greenwell and Councilmen Russell and LaHara.

18-YEAR-OLDS TO VOTE

Voter regustration for 18-year-olds was held at Seaside High School on Tuesday, May 4. Mrs. Linda Lee Bassett, League of Women Voters member, registered the 18-year-olds during civics classes and at noon. Approximately 50 students were registered.

Congress approved the 18-year-old vote for national elections, but the Supreme Court ruled that 38 states must, individually, approve the measure before the 18-year-olds are given voting privileges for state, as well as national, elections. California is expected to be the 20th state to ratify the amendment.

WINNERS NAMED

Yulanda Davis, a senior, was named last week as one of two high school seniors from the Monterey Peninsula who have been awarded $4,000 four-year college scholarships by Pacific Gas and Electric Company for outstanding scholastic and community achievement.

The other student was Benita Louise Low of North Salinas High School.

Miss Davis, daughter of Master Sergrant and Mrs. Warner Lafayette Davis, 1970 Military Avenue, Seaside, was one of six seniors from high schools throughout Northern and Central California competing for two special recognition scholarships for achievement in spite of disadvantages.

The company awarded 16 scholarships in its $64,000 annual competition. The scholarship will begin with the 1971-72 academic year for study at any university or college in the United States she chooses.

Presentation of awards was made by PG&E president Shermer L. Sibley at a dinner in San Francisco's Fairmont Hotel where all 16 scholarship winners and 32 runners-up were honored. This is the fifth year of the scholarship program established in memory of James B. Black, the company's late board chairman.

Miss Davis, who will be 18 on May 13, has been accepted by the University of Southern California, where she will enroll as a pre-medical student.

At Seaside High, Yulanda has won a California Scholarship Federation life membership and was president of the French Club. She also plays piano and guitar, is a volunteer Red Cross worker and does oil paintings.

SMOKING IN SCHOOLS

The Seaside High School Student Council has officially endorsed a proposal which legalizes cigarette smoking on high school campuses. The proposal, now before the state legislature, was introduced by Assemblyman Frank Murphy of Santa Cruz. It would permit all students, 15 years old or older, to smoke on campuses throughout the state with the provision that they have a note from their parents giving them permission. The student council voted to send a letter of support to Assemblyman Murphy, as well as letters displaying their interest to Assemblyman Bob Wood and Senator Donald Grunsky.

The proposal was delivered personally to the student council by Seaside High principal James R. Solberg, who said that smoking is currently the major cause of suspension and other disciplinary action brought upon students by the Seaside Administration. Dr. Solberg had said previously that he would support such a measure, but that he doubted that one would be made. The present policy at Seaside High is to suspend only those students who are problematic smokers; that is, those who refuse to respect the generally accepted boundaries separating "safe" smoking areas from "unsafe" ones. "We only suspend students for stupidity, not for smoking," Dr. Solberg has said on several occasions.

The obvious problems which would be encountered by trying to separate those with permission from those without, as well as several other problems of enforcement and cleanliness. will make the bill a very precarious proposal in Sacramento. The difference on the Seaside High Campus will be almost none, except, as one observer noted, for ashtrays.

BOWLING PARTY

Seaside High held its annual bowling party Friday, April 30 and Saturday, May 1. It lasted from 11:45 p.m. to 6 a.m. at Cypress Lanes in Seaside.

The activities consisted of bowling and pool and, if you didn't want to do either of these, you could go into the lounge and listen to records. Most of the students who came to the party went bowling, while the pool tables were monopolized by an elite group of pool players. If you didn't arrive within the first half-hour you couldn't get any shoes unless your feet were a size 6-1/2 or smaller. As the evening progressed, a big table was set up in the middle of the bowling alley and food was brought out. It consisted of a few greasy hot dogs, some stale potato chips and some cold popcorn. Even if you wanted any of it, you had to fight for it because it was all gone within a few minutes.

The over-crowed situation enabled most of the bowlers to only bowl a few games. To sum it all up, it was but one example of the population explosion and was not worth the price of admission.

A LITTLE BIT OF SCHOOL
RON ARMSTRONG

Seaside High was once more of a battlefield than a school. Fights were not uncommon and riots were plentiful. Students were out of class more than they were in. Trouble not only seemed to be a part of school, but it was the biggest part. When the school needed help the most, help was there in the form of a proud man by the name of Mr. Beene. When he took his seat in the V.P.'s chair, he stated that he would straighten this school out. As the years went by the school began to quiet down. He was doing his job and doing it with the best of his ability. For this dedication, the students began putting him down. But this didn't stop him. His pride wouldn't let him quit until he had reached the goal he had set for the school. Things grew more and more peaceful until a lot of fights turned into a few fights. Still he is not satisfied. This year has been the best year in the history of the school. I really believe the credit goes to one very proud Mr. Beene, who has really done his job to the best of his ability.

FASHION CLUB TAKES A TRIP

The Seaside High School Fashion Club will be going to San Francisco on Saturday, May 22. The trip is being paid for by the hard-earned money of the club members.

The money was earned by giving a carwash, a Snoopy Dog raffle, a Valentine Candy raffle and, last of all, a Fashion Show.

Once in San Francisco, the members will do some shopping, sightseeing and, before starting home, will all get together for dinner on Fisherman's Warf.

President of the Club is Patty DePadua and secretary Terry Earhart. The advisor is Mrs. Ledzenski.

POTLUCK DINNER

Want to help the senior class and take a "chance" on getting something good to eat at the same time? No!

If that's the case, you should have a real nice time at the Senior All-Night Party. You'll be dancing, tripping, smoking, and playing basketball in no place other than our own Fitzpatrick Gym.

Of course, if you'd rather go to San Francisco Bay and have a real memorable evening, you can help the Senior Class raise money by coming to the "Potluck by Number" dinner on Friday, May 14. The dinner will be held in Halleck Cafeteria, from 6-10 p.m.

The food will be arranged in a numbered code and you get to try your luck at "gambling" with the food. You only pay for what you eat (of course!)

Everyone is invited to the dinner, and if you choose the right nember you might get lucky.

Before Leaving On Trips, Heed These Burglary Tips

With residential burglaries up nearly 300 per cent in the last decade, the Insurance Information Institute of San Francisco cautions vacationers to beware of summertime thieves who regard a vacant house as an open invitation.

For many people, summer is vacation and travel time. For a burglar, however, it's a busy season, the time of year he can walk into a house and clean it out without the worry of someone coming home and surprising him.

The Institute offers some tips for those planning summer vacations or overnight trips this year to reduce the chance of theft:

--Notify your local police department of the dates you'll be away from home and how you can be reached.

--Leave the same information and your keys with a neighbor or the building manager for emergency use in case there is a burglary or fire.

--Stop all home delivery of newspapers, milk, etc. Papers piled in front of your door tell a burglar he doesn't have to worry. You can arrange for a neighbor to pick up your mail, another telltale sign.

--Leave a small light burning in one of the rooms. An automatic timing device to turn lights off and on at pre-set periods is better. A radio left playing will give your home or apartment the sound of occupancy.

An unmown lawn makes it obvious no one is home. Make arragements to have someone cut your grass.

--Never close all your shades or blinds.

--Never tell a stranger your vacation plans or addredd. Never tell a newspaper that you'll be leaving on vacation. Even novice burglars will scan newspapers for such items.

--Just before you leave, take time to double check everything, including all door locks and windows. Then make a check of all gas outlets, electrical appliances and water faucets to make sure they have been turned off.

A utility check not only may prevent damage but also will give you peace of mind during your vacation.

Free?

Merchants will have to exercise greater care in advertising "free" items under provisions of legislation introduced by Assemblyman Leon Ralph (D, Los Angeles).

"Too often consumers in search of bargains learn there are strings attached to so-called 'free' merchandise," Ralph explained.

The lawmaker said a classic example is the "buy one and get the second free" promotion, when normal price of one is half of price paid for two.

When you buy from a POST advertiser, tell him -- he LIKES TO KNOW!

Wants To Protect Predators

Congressman Jerome R. Waldie, (D, Antioch) has called for an end to the poisoning of predatory animals by the Interior Department's Division of Wildlife Services.

"It is time to declare a cease fire in this chemical war against animal predators, for the warfare could approach holocaust proportions within the ecological macro-structure," said Waldie.

The congressman has now introduced legislation that would advise farmers and ranchers of ecologically and economically sound predator controls that do not include poisons.

A particularly long-lived poison called "Component 1080" has recently been the center of some controversy. Component 1080 is among the chemicals specifically mentioned in Waldie's bill as "off-limits" for the new agents of the Service.

"This deadly substance is simply dumped in great quanity into the ecological network where it is passed along the predatory chain far past the species for which it may have been originally intended," said Waldie.

The disappearing California Condor is among species found killed inadvertantly by poison 1080 programs.

It is estimated that the federal government will spend $2 million this year on predator control.

"The poisoning of predators that is now performed under the auspices of this program (Predator Control) has been shown to be short-sighted and ecologically destructive," Waldie said. "For instance, when the predators are gone, rodent populations explode, tripping a new onslaught of poisons. Millions may be spent to correct former damage with still more chemical destruction."

provide a broad range of occupational training and necessary supportive services.

The cost, $1,875,000 a year, will be financed under the Manpower Development and Training Act. Plans call for the accommodation of 300 youths in training, 125 commuting daily. Initially the school will provide non-residential training with planned later accommodation for residential trainees.

Stuttgart Performs

The Suttgart Ballet, making its first appearance in San Francisco, will open an eight-performance schedule on Tuesday, June 22 through Sunday, June 27 at the San Francisco Opera House. The S. Hurok attraction will be presented by John Kornfeld Associates, Inc.

Performances of the four programs, each to be performed twice, will be nightly at 8:30 p.m.

Tickets will be available by mail order only at the Symphony Box Office starting May 10. Tickets will go on public sale May 24 at the Symphony Box Office, Sherman Clay in San Francisco and Oakland, and all Macy's stores.

The first of the four programs to be presented will be the full-length "Eugene Onegin," the John Cranko ballet set to a Tchaikovsky score and arranged by Kurt-Heinz Stolze, with Marcia Haydee and Heinz Clauss in principal roles. Ashley Lawrence, the company's new musical director, will be making his bay area debut in the pit.

Artists also include Richard Cragun, Egon Madsen, Birgit Keil, Judith Reyn, Susanne Hanke, Jane Landon, Bernd Berg and Jan Stripling.

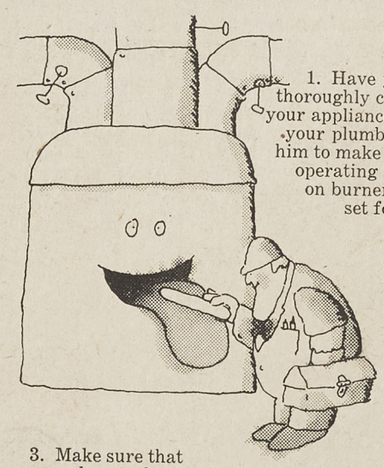
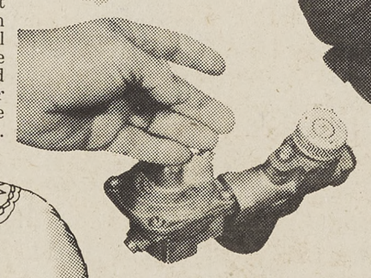
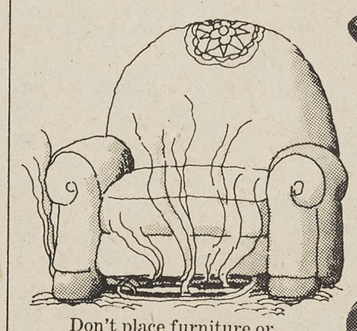
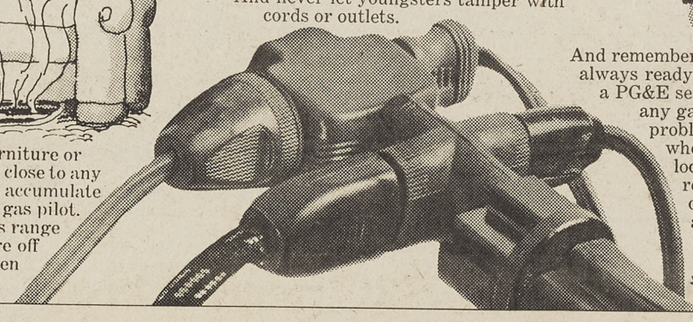
Household safety: four things you should do. And a couple you shouldn't.


1. Have your gas appliances thoroughly checked once a year by your appliance or furnace man or your plumber. While he's there ask him to make sure safety pilots are operating properly, air openings on burners are clean and set for a blue flame.

2. Get rid of any rusted or loose-fitting vent and flue pipes. Have them checked annually. If you ever should smell a gas leak call PG&E immediately.
3. Make sure that burners and controls on your gas furnace, wall or floor heater are clean at all times. And be sure to clean or replace dirty furnace filters periodically.


4. When you disconnect appliances, pull plug first from the outlet. Also make sure electric tools are properly grounded, and frayed or broken electric cords are replaced.


Don't place furniture or drapes over or close to any heater. Or let gas accumulate before lighting a gas pilot. Be sure that gas range burners are off completely when not in use.


Never connect too many appliances to one outlet or circuit. And never let youngsters tamper with cords or outlets.

And remember, too, that we're always ready to help. knocked you over. Little did we realize when the noisy, electric streetcars were removed from the tracks that they were being replaced by monsters that would destroy us, if we let them. We did not that streetcars were not replaced to give us better transportation. No, they were replaced with busses because busses use gasoline and tires and need new motors that have to be replaced every few years. The street cars, and the steel rails that they ran on, did not wear out fast enough - that is why they were replaced. The big automobile manufacturers and the big oil companies and the big rubber tire manufacturers couldn't make any money out of those old street cars that just ran and ran without repairs or new tires. The passenger trains were, likewise, replaced because they were getting in the way of the freight trains. Besides, there was more money to be made out of manufacturing airplanes that used up fuel and out of automobiles that used gasoline and tires and replacement parts.

Now, after all of these years of enjoying the affluence of the "jet age" and the 100-mile-an-hour automobiles, we are beginning to wake up to the fact that we are poisoning ourselves with our own exhaust. We are beginning to take a second look at ferryboats and railroad passenger trains, electric streetcars and even electric automobiles. As a matter of fact, we are even casting a favorable eye toward bicycles as a means of transportation. While visiting S.F. the other day we noticed that the main street through Golden Gate park is closed Sunday for the use of bicyclists. Now, that is progress! We have come full cycle to the realization that the "progress" of the jet-age might not have been progress at all, but really a very bad experiment with our own lives at stake. Pollution, which we created with our greed for more and more profits from our industrial monster, has now become a frankenstien - a killer monster that will destroy us all if we don't put a stop to it real fast.

Speaking of progress, there is another area where we are now beginning to wake up. That is bringing in federal urban redevelopment. Monterey woke up too late. After sitting around for 12 years while the urban redevelopment boys tore down all the downtown and left empty lots all of this time, they have now found out that the main lessor, Penneys, could back out at the last minute (after 10 years) and leave the citizens of Monterey high and dry. The elected representative of the people of Monterey decided that they had had enough "direction" by urban redevelopment bureacrats and took over for the citizens of Monterey.

We in Seaside haven't had 12 years of inaction yet. As a matter of fact, for a long time we were romanced into thinking that urban redevelopment was the savior of this area. Some houses were built and many of the slums were cleared, but we also have been left with some pretty empty land. Not only have we empty land, but the citizens can't do anything about it because the urban redevelopment officials and their attorney are so powerful that they can tell the elected representatives of the citizens of Seaside what they can and can't do. What kind of government do we have here when an employe of the city can tell the city council what to do. It is time for a change. We don't need two heads for our government. We don't need the tail wagging the dog. We don't need to wait 12 years to remedy a situation which has gotten out of hand. We can change it all by simply voting on June 1 to put the control of our city back where it belongs – in the hands of the elected representatives, instead of the hands of the bureacrats of urban redevelopment.

Questions are Answered

Q -- I want to enter college next summer. Should I check with the VA now, or enroll and advise the registrar of my veteran status at that time?

A -- You should inform the VA as soon as possible of your plans to enroll.

Q -- I wish to apply for a certificate of eligibility for a GI loan, but I lost my Armed Forces Report of Transfer or Discharge. What should I do?

A -- The VA will accept a legible copy of a release from active duty. If a copy is not available, apply at any VA office for an application form for a replacement.

Q -- Can a veteran go to any school he desires?

A -- Yes, if the course or program leads to a recognized educational, vocational or professional objective, and is approved by a state approving agency.

Q. When did the current G.I. educational bill take effect?

A. While the present G.I. Bill became law in June 1966, it covers veterans who served after January 31, 1955.

Letter To The Editor

Editor:

We wish to express our appreciation to all those who have made the series of "Sesame Street" Saturday morning parties for kids at The Seaside POST a success over the past eight weeks.

Especially we want to thank you, Mr. Barragan for use of your spacious office and for master-minding the idea in the first place; Cable TV for installing the cable; Rossoff's Furniture and TV Mart, both of Seaside, for the loan of color TV sets and Mr. Norris Gilmore, manager of the Seaside Safeway, for supplying cookies and fruit juice for the thirsty yooung viewers who have come to the party.

During the entire season dozens of youngsters have spent a happy couple of hours each Saturday watching the Sesame Street program, making their own sculptures with wood scraps and paste, drawing, coloring or cutting out paper creations. In short they were doing their own version of the Sesame Street "Thing".

Spring weather and activities have cut down attendance and other difficulties have made continuing the series impractical at this time. But all those who have helped with it, stand ready to start it again at a future date if there is sufficient interest in the community.

For the moment the series is over, but those who would like to see it started again should call The POST, 394-6632 and if enough interest is shown "Sesame Street" on Saturday morning can come back to 510 Broadway.

Sincerely
Eleandor J. Melvin
Arts Coordinating Council of Monterey County

Editor: I'm very concerned about the citizens of Seaside, as well as the heads of our govenment. We have has city unrest, recalls, misunderstandings. WHY? Is it because the City Council is not "lily-white?" I think our city could be a lot better if the Mayor of Seaside would stop degrading the blacks and the poor. Here, in a local convalescent hospital, our mayor has a mother on welfare. So don't, Mr. Mayor, too stones because you live in a glass house, too. Oh yes, why can't we get out and vote and give worthwhile candidates our support for better government. Now we are getting ready for the recall of the city council again, aren't you tired of that? What does Sarah Ector think about playing the part of Aunt Jemima in this election? Concerned citizens do not need "I want to be." We need people that have the know-how; people that have enough love in their heart so that there is no color, but who look on every man, woman and child as human beings.

A Disturbed Citizen

(Editors Note: All letters to the editor must be signed with name and address of sender. If requested, as was by the author of this letter, the name and address will be withheld).

Editor: It used to be that it was impossible to try to fight the Establishment. But the establishment has lost some of its luster recently. Also you know that we live in a State where the Governor's salary is $49,100 per year and he didn't have to pay any taxes. This is a state where the loopholes in the eax laws protect the rich and the public officials.

We also live in a city where our former city attorney and now present attorney for the Urban Renewal Agency made $65,000 per year off the taxpayers of Seaside. This same attorney was convicted of fraud and many other crimes and is still a very important cog in Mr. Haddad's type of establishment. We also have a mayor whose income has been upwards of $30,000 per year and in "order to protect the taxpayers," he put his mother on welfare.

Monterey has learned, and surely we will, that it is time to take a long hard look at our present establishment and make the necessary changes to return government to the people where it rightly belongs.
"Pat" Patterson

Who Cares

By Mel Vercoe

How lucky we are, you and I who might have voted for Sir Ronald of Reagan to replace the aging Richard Nixon next year in the gala extravaganza that passes for a presidential election in America. How fortunate that we learned in time that the handsome Sir Ronald is not nearly bright enough to handle a nation doing a gross national product business of a trillion dollars per year, when he can't save enough out of $44,100 per year salary to pay even one measly dollar in state income tax last year. You may recall that this is the same savior who pointed out that welfare abuses were not helping and that taxes should hurt.

And really, this is risky for the good governor. Supposing he continues in dire financial straits, even after sellin a home for two million, and supposing he has to apply for welfare and is turned down on some stupid technicality. Who would he turn to ? The Welfare Rights Organization, the governor's arch enemy who has championed the cause of people who for one reason or another have had to apply for state assistance, some of whom were unfamiliar with the provisions of the law, and many of whom had never been employed in the movie industry?

Or, better yet, maybe he could give up the free rent in the mansion in Sacramento and go back to making movies. Even poor old Jess Unruh would probably enjoy watching Lassie trying to untie Sir Ronald before the speeding express train came around the bend to where Sir Ronald's neck was stretched across the outside rail. And in between times he could do commercials for the President, holding up a bundle of well marked Republican twenty dollar bills and saying, "Money is our most important product."

Last week I interviewed Rep. Paul McCloskey and tried to talk him into going all-out for the Presidency instead of just threatening to run if nobody else shows up. He agreed with me (and about a hundred million others) that Vietnamization is unworkable, which means that we will always have to maintain a large force in Asia or else abandon the Nixon method for attaining a "just and honorable peace".

Unfortunately, honesty is not as important as some other things in our political scene, and Rep. McCloskey is about as welcome to Republican party ranks as a stray cat with the measles. But be of good cheer. Maybe the world will come to an end before anything bad can happen.

All women of the Penisula are invited by the Monterey Peninsula Branch, American Association of University Women and Monterey Peninsula College who are co-sponsors of the annual lecture series.

Coordinator of compensatory education for the Monterey Peninsula Unified School District since 1969, Mrs. Knight has also found time to hold offices and serve on the boards of such organizations as the National Association for Advancement of Colored People, Young Adults for Action, Altrusa Club, Arts Coordinating Council of Monterey County, Monterey County Tuberculosis and Health Association, Monterey County Mental Health Association, Lyceum of Monterey Peninsula, American Red Cross, Family Service Association, Monterey Institute of Speech and Hearing, Young Life and Junior League among others.

Mrs. Knight was named one of the "Outstanding Young Women of America" and a Seaside "Citizen of the Month" in 1969. She was also given a special award by the MPC board of trustees for "contributions to the college program."

a graduate of Albany State College in Georgia, she will receive a Master's Degree in education at the Monterey Institute of Foreign Studies this June. She has also done graduate work at the University of California's Berkeley and Santa Cruz campuses.

DANCE

The Les Grand Coeurs are making plans for a "Crazy Hot Pants and Jump Suit" Dance which will be held August 7 from 9:30 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. Prizes will be given to the most unique and/or original attire worn. Place for affair will be announced at a later date.

OPEN HOUSE

Open house and the dedication of "Operation Shoestring's" new building at 1199 San Pablo Avenue, Seaside, will be held Sunday, May 16, from 2 to 8 p.m.

City, state and county officials will participate in this wonderful, well-planned program.

Mothers of "Operation Shoestrings" will serve as hostesses. Refreshments will be served.

SOUNDS OF YOUTH

Rehersals and sign-ups for the Ninth Annual Sounds of Youth will be held at King Junior High School on Saturday at 2 p.m. Interested individuals should be present to meet with Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. White and Mrs. Bailey, or call 394-3935, 372-7846 or 394-7294. Interested Junior Debs should call Mrs. Harris, 394-3058. Date, time and place for affair will be announced at a later date. All proceeds from affair are used to provide scholarships

FAMOUS FILMS

Three famous films will be shown at Monterey Peninsula College next week under the auspices of MPC's community services office.

"Olympia II: Festival of Beauty," second installment of Leni Riefenstahl's documentary on the Berlin Olympic Game of 1936, will be screened Friday, May 14, at 8 p.m. and again Sunday, May 16, at 2:30 p.m. - both in the music hall on campus. The film is considered by film historians to be "a textbook on imaginative uses of photography, editing and music in the motion picture."

Two classic horror films, "Isle of the Dead" and "The Body Snatcher," will be shown Saturday, May 15, at 8 p.m., also in the music hall. James Agee called the former "one of the best horror movies ever made." The latter, based on a short story by Robert Louis Stevenson, shows "a humane sincerity and devotion to good cinema, unfortunately rather rare in United States movies", but has "as all - out, hair-raising a climaz...as you are ever likely to see," according to Time.

Disadvantaged Aided By Two-Year College

"Occupational education as provided by the comprehensive community college offers the greatest hope for rehabilitation of blighted ghettos and their inhabitants over the briefest possible period of time," according to Dr. Charles G. Hurst, Jr., president of Malcolm X College in Chicago, and a member of the board of directors of the American Association of Junior Colleges.

In an Association report entitled "Occupations and Education in the 70's: Promises & Challenges," Dr. Hurst cautioned, however, that "the content of any occupational program of two post-high school programs that prepare men and women for technical and semi-professional jobs in government, private industry, business and in health fields. Most two-year community colleges offer such programs.

"Before the black community can become self-sufficient, there is a tremendous range of occupational needs that must be fulfilled," Dr. Hurst wrote.

"The training of people in these areas has been so serthat acute manpower shortages prevail. The public schools have proved incapable of doing the job. The comprehensive community college must not initiate the same failure."

Community colleges must combine technical training with liberal education, Hurst maintains, in order to develop citizens who can think critically and creatively about the society and form proper standards of taste and judgment in connection with the culture around them.

"Self-determination is the basic thing that black people are working for and fighting for everywhere in America," Dr. Hurst concludes. "The schools must prepare blacks to participate in this struggle.

"Thus, for them, occupational programs must be designed to clarify and strengthen not destroy knowledge of black consciousness and black pride. As they hungrily seek after an understanding of self, we must not betray their trust in education or in educators. So somehow we must revolutionize the total learning situation to accommodate mistrust, as well as the demands of new requirements for employment in an increasingly technological society."

Another contributor to the Association report, Dr. Johnnie R. Clark, assistant dean of academic affairs at St. Petersburg College in Florida, discussed the image of the occupations. She said the community college should join with industry in building a favorable image for the occupational fields, one that does not smack of "second-class."

Needs Physician's Assistants

In response to a need for Physician's Assistants, largely in the Veterans Administration, the Civil Service Commission is inviting applications from those who possess the required qualifications.

It is anticipated that about 500 persons will be appointed.

Physician's Assistants will work under a doctor's direct supervision, performing diagnostic and therapeutic duties such as taking medical histories, applying and removing casts, and suturing minor lacerations.

The appointment of Physician's Assistants is expected to help bridge the medical care gap in two ways: It will give people who have badly needed medical skills the opportunity to work at the height of their abilities, and it will free doctors from the more routine tasks involved in medical care, allowing them to concentrate their talents where they are most needed. This program is largely experimental at this time.

Candidates most likely to qualify as Physician's Assistants are expected to be those who have performed independent duty as medical corpsmen, and nurses.

Standards are high, requiring both a broad background of medical knowledge and completion of an acceptable course of study of at least 12 months' duration designed specifically for the training of Physician's Assistants. Qualifications will be evaluated by a panel of medical doctors.

There is no written test.

Jobs are located in hospitals and clinics of the Veterans Administration throughout the country, in medical facilities of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, and in the District of Columbia Government.

Complete information, including all necessary application forms, is contained in Announcement No. 428 which can be obtained from any Civil Service Commission Area Office, most large Post Offices, college placement offices, or from the U. S. Civis Service Commission, 1900 E. Street, N. W.., Washington, D. DC. 20415.

Urges State Recycling

Assemblywoman March Fong (D. Oakland) has introduced a resolution requiring all state agencies to convert to the use of recycled paper to the maximum extent possible.

"It is too often true," Mrs. Fong said, "that as we consider lawmaking for everybody else, we overlook our own backyard. It is fine to encourage Boy Scouts and ecology centers to conduct paper drives and to urge the consumer to be environmentally sound in his bahavior. But a concern for the ecology best begins at home, and the state, as a consumer, has not been as environmentally responsible as it should be."

She acknowledged that there are many technological and economic obstacles in the way of a complete conversation to reprocessed paper. The expense of massively utilizing such paper is not known.

"But what is known," she said, "is that the State of California purchases at least $12 million worth of paper products annually. What is also known is that one ton of waste paper represents the cutting down of seventeen full-grown trees. My concern here is that we use state purchasing power to encourage resource reuse and simultaneously slow down resource depletion."

Mrs. Fong said her resolution is designed to give a legislative mandate to the Department of General Services, the state's major purchaser, to explore all possible means to amend paper product specifications in a fashion that would result in maximum reprocessed paper usage by the state.

Grooving Around the Peninsula

with BETTY MANN

Hi There, Fellow Peninsulans,

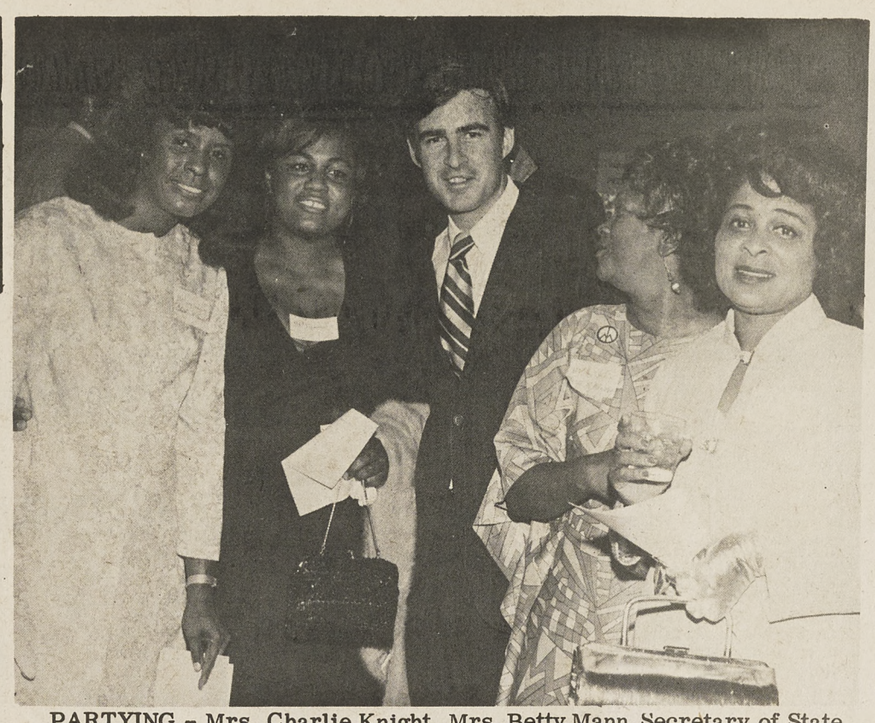
Recently, Mrs. Charlie Knight, Mrs. Mattye Blakeney Mrs. Mary Ellen Harris and I attended a reception and cocktail party at the Senator Hotel in Sacramento. The affair was given in honor of the black newspaper media of California. Many outstanding and well-known personalities were in attendance for this spectacular occasion. Hostess for this affair was Mrs. Virna Canson, legislative advocate for the State of California.

Our entourage from the Monterey Peninsula was graciously escorted by Mrs. Canson to meet the many dignataries that were present. Edmund Brown. Jr., Secretary of the State and Wilson Riles, State of California Superintendent of Education, were present along with many other well-known personalities. After the reception and cocktail party, the guests from Monterey enjoyed dinner in the Empire Room of the Hotel Senator with Dr. Ruth Holloway, Chief of Compensatory Education in California and Mrs. Canson.

Other previous happenings around town included the Monterey Peninsula Cotillion League's African Ball which was a tremendous success. An estimated crowd of 275 people, clad in African attire, attended this unusual affair. The guests were treated to a delicious African menu consisting of cous-cous, ashanti fowl, fahxiga, smoored chicken, ground nut stew, yellow rice, sthuul, veldt bread and tossed salad.

After enjoying the delicious menu which was prepared by the members of the Cotillion League and mothers of the 1971 debutantes, an African Fashion Show was held with Simenon Ydunka (a native of Nigeria) and myself narrating. Models in the show were the debutantes of '71-Linda Beene, Lydia Hampton, Elaine Russell, Cynthia Coleman, Demetria Hunter, Jean Drummond, Connie Ellis, Rita Burden and Dorothea Reed. Other models were: Melbra Watts, Dorothy Vaughn, Verna Sloan, Ruthie Watts, Ophelia Raymond, Celeste Coleman, Marie Sweet, Barbara Tucker, Helen Turner, Betty Sapp, Sandra Scott, Carolyn Coleman and Bill Watts Jr.

An exciting Ghanian folk dance "The High Life"-was performed by Simeon Ydunka, Betty Sapp, Linda Beene and Sandra Scott. This fast paced kinetic type dance received a rousing ovation from the audience with a response for an encore. Also during the evening festivities, Mr. Yusef Mwesi had an art exhibit on display with objects d'art that were made by the members of his band-The Black Messengers of Oakland. Mrs. Gwen Taylor, contributed a hand woven crewel tapestry to the display of artwork.



PARTYING - Mrs. Charlie Knight, Mrs. Betty Mann, Secretary of State Pat Brown, Jr., Mrs. Mattye Blakney and Mrs. Mary Ellen Harris pause during reception and cocktail party given in Sacramento in honor of black newspaper media. (See Betty Mann's column)

Door prizes were donated by local artists, Tom Webb of Grahics arts, Pacific Grove; Mrs. Dorothea Brown, Fort Ord; Mrs. Gwen Taylor and the Import Shop in Carmel Rancho. Music for the evening was played by the Jade Quartet and the Trevor Laing combo.

Bank Report Tells How To Ease Government Financial Situation

Bank of America, the nation's largest bank, has proposed a multi-faceted program to ease the acute state and local government financial situation.

In a special report, the bank emphasized that the financial problems of states and localities are not temporary, but chronic.

The first order of business, according to the bank, is to bring inflation under control. It cites productivity growth as an important long-term offset to inflation, but adds: "growth for growth's sake may not always be a desirable goal for our society.

"Inflation has pushed government costs so high that many states and localities have been unable to raise sufficient revenue to pay their own bills and has resulted in market interest rates for bonds well above the debt interest rate ceilings of many states and localities.

"If inflation is not brought under control, state and local financial problems will continue to be aggravated by reduced borrowing capability and interest rate ceilings that limit ability to compete for investor acceptance."

In another of its topical "Focus" reports, Bank of America expresses the belief that seven principles are basic to any search for solutions to state and local financial problems:

*Spending decisions should be governed at the outset by some constant system of priorities. It is impossible for government to raise enough revenue to meet all potential demands for public services.

*A taxpayer should understand that he is the one paying for the services he receives--and he should realize just how much he is paying in all forms of taxes.

*Taxes ideally should be based upon sources which reflect real growth in economic activity.

*Tax reporting procedures should be simple and as uniform as is consistent with the need to deal fairly with variations that are inevitable from one geographic area to another or from one industry to another.

*Enforcement procedures must be simple and unambiguous if public confidence in the overall tax system's equity is to be maintained.

*Taxes should lend themselves to easy periodic review and not remain in effect after they have achieved their original purpose.

*No tax should be confiscatory.

In line with these principles, Bank of America favors four steps to reduce the financial problems of state and local governments.

First, the very complexity of many public issues today poses the twin dangers either of attempting precipitate programs or of becoming so overawed that no action is taken at all. Government, working in collaboration with the private sector, can direct us toward a middle course by establishing and maintaining priorities of issues and action.

Because realistic priorities cannot be achieved without broad public support, more frequent use of the initiative and referendum deserves greater attention as a means of countering legislative impasses.

Second, state and local governments should find a source of revenue more responsive to general economic growth than sales and property taxes. The most obvious choice would be income and profits taxes.

Third, income and profits taxes at the state and local level must be directly related to the federal tax system. Relating state and local income taxes to those at the federal level would improve the revenue base for state and local government; the increased uniformity of tax structures would reduce tax evasion and the costs of collection.

Fourth, revenue sharing could buy time for states and municipalities to find basic solutions to their financial problems. In addition, federal grant-in-aid programs could be reformed to reduce the number of specific use limitations.

These programs could be financed by general sales or a value-added tax at the federal level, rather than from federal income tax revenues.

However, none of these approaches should be viewed as a substitute for long-term reform of tax structure.

Our Fault

In our photo story last week of the Seaside High School band practice at Olympia Plaza Shopping Center, we failed to mention that cola and donuts for the band were provided by the manager of Seaside's Sears store . . . our error.

Auburn Survived Gold Rush

One of the few lucky towns of the great gold rush in California is Auburn. Lucky because it was able to survive the end of the easy gold and the destructive fires that erased so many towns that sprang up during those hectic years of boom and bust. It survived because of its central location along the routes to the mines and towns springing up in all directions, making it an important distribution center for supplies. Its life was also expanded when the Central Pacific Railroad pushed into the community in 1865.

Authentic reminders of Auburn's history still stand in Old Town, a distinct part of the county seat of Placer County. In 1848 a Frenchman named Claude Chana discovered placer gold in Auburn Ravine and the town began its history.

Old Town's plaza is surrounded by authentic structures of historic interest--the old firehouse, California's oldest post office, Lawyer's Row, the old American Hotel.

Although not one of the real pioneer buildings, the firehouse with its unique sharp tower and bell houses the Golden State's oldest volunteer fire department. It was organized in 1852 and is still in operation.

Heavy iron doors are folded back from the main entrance to the state's oldest post office at the other end of the block. A wood and glass door with a letter drop near the floor sits behind the iron doors. According to a landmark on the building Auburn had its first mail service in 1849 with the first post office established July 21, 1853. Daily mail service was started in June 1888.

At the corner of Washington and Lincoln Way is the old American Hotel, now occupied by the Shanghai Restaurant. Orginally a wooden structure destroyed in the fire of 1855, it was one of Aurburn's oldest hotels. The present brick building was built immediately after the fire and also housed the early offices of the California Stage Company.

NAACP Nixes Nixon

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) has officially called on Congress to reject President Nixon's revenue sharing plan unless it provides for "workable safeguards against racial discrimination in the distribution and utilization of public funds."

Bishop Stephen G. Spottswood, chairman of the NAACP board of directors, relased the full text of a resolution adeopted at the board's recent quarterly meeting in New York City.

This action, he said, was not against the principle of revenue sharing but against the absence of any federal controls governing how the money is to be spent.

The full text of the resolution follows:

WHEREAS, President Nixon has proposed a revenue sharing plan making United States funds available to states and cities without any Federal restrictions as to the use of these funds and

WHEREAS, the practice of granting Federal funds for education and other purposes to states withour any requirements as to how the funds are to be distributed and utilized has resulted in gross discrimination against Negro citizens in funds allotted to meet their needs, therefore be it,

RESOLVED that National Association for the Advancement of Colored People call upon the Congress to reject any revenue sharing plan which fails to provide workable safeguards against discrimination in the distribution and utilization of public funds, and be it further,

RESOLVED that the text of this resolution be sent to the leadership of both parties in both Houses of Congress.

Pesticides Backfired

Cotton crops in the Imperial Valley have been decimated, say Harold T. Reynolds, chairman of UC-Berkeley's Department of Entomology, and Robert van den Bosch, chairman of UC-B's Division of Biological Control, because of "upset and resurgences" of pests caused by pesticides.

In-field tests have proven, say the entomologist and the biologist, that in some cases the pest populations increase following application of pesticides, rather than decreasing.

Their findings were revealed at a symposium sponsored by the agricultural division of the University of California, attended by 900-odd delegated.

"We've turned on" many crop-killing insects with pesticides, according to van den Bosch. He stated that many insects develop a resistance to the application, returning in larger force, with repeated applications only increasing the problem.

Reynolds showed films of a citrus tree which was sprayed with DDT, only to be ravaged later by pests, while another such tree in the same grove was unscathed, although it had not been treated.

"The farmer using the wrong pesticide in abundant doses is creating his own monster," said van den Bosch. "You beat the things and a week later they are back on your neck, only worse."

A field which had contained six species of pests was given a spray treatment with insecticides and it was later found to have 12 pest species, he said.

Reynolds laid the blame on the absence of perfected, selective insecticides.

"We must," he declared, "have safe chemicals -- chemicals that are selective; but very few are available."

At the closing session of the two-day symposium, five panelists discussed the subject of pesticides and fertilizers.

Jerry W. Fielder, director of the State Department of Agriculture, said that farmers and chemical manufacturers can expect "tightened controls" on use of pesticides and fertilizers in the near future. He also foresees a requirement for "prescriptions" for such products in California.

"The policy of the department," he said, "is to reduce the use of agricultural chemicals to the point of essential need."

Dr. Ned Bayley, director of the United States Department of Agriculture's seizure and education division, supported Fielder's prediction of tighter regulation of chemicals. He said the proposed Farm Control and Besticide Act would place stringent controls on registration of the chemicals and on their sale and use.

Study Shows Few Blacks Drop Out

The Scholarship Education and Defense Fund for Racial Equality (SEDFRE) reported on Saturday that only 23 out of 155 black college students the organization has aided in the past seven years dropped out of school.

That represents less than half the normal rate of college dropouts in the nation's universities and colleges.

No studies have yet been revealed of the student dropout rate at black colleges. Nationwide statistics on dropouts from the entire nation's colleges and universities are inadequate, SEDFRE's spokesmen claim, and vary from region to region.

They point out that in many cases black students must spend five or more years qualifying for a four-year degree because of such factors as poor preparation at high school or the need to earn money during their studies.

Ronnie Moore, who is SEDFRE's executive director, said that the majority of the students which his fund sponsors could be said to be "high risk" college material, often lacking the academic credentials to get conventional scholarships. He contends that the low dropout rate of students on SEDFRE grants is proof that the organization is successful in recognizing academic potential.

SEDFRE is financed by small private foundations. One of its functions is the training of newly elected black officials for their jobs. It provided assistance to Mayor Charles Evers of Fayette, Mississippi.

The majority of its scholarship students come from family groups with annual incomes below $4,000. Many such families are on welfare.

Equity Is Goal Of Bill

State Senator Nicholas C. Petris (D,Oakland) and State Senator John A. Nejedly (R, Walnut Creek) recently announced a bipartisan effort to secure equitable taxation for California's 24,000 cooperative housing members.

Senator Nejedly agreed to hoin with Senator Petris in a combined effort to secure passage of legislation (SB 569) to include coop members under the $750 tax exemption allowed homeowners.

Formerly, Senator Nejedly was the principal author of similar legislation designed to accomplish the same goal.

Both senators expressed concern with the inequitable tax situation which arbitrarily excludes these homeowners.

Senator Nejedly cited the example of the Rossmoor development in his district as an example of Californians who are pioneering an innovative and sent housing patterns.

SB 569 is designed, in part, to encourage more cooperative housing in California in that the bill offers a tas incentive identical to that enjoyed by other homeowners.

The legislation will benefit student housing projects, senior citizen housing projects, low-income housing projects and those middle-income citizens who are seeking an inexpensive form of home ownership.

A recent publication by the Citizens Committee for Quality Education made some statements about the achievement of your child in the Monterey Peninsula Unified School District which were untrue. In the interest of public service, the Monterey Bay Teachers Association would like to present some facts in rebuttal.

FICTION
The Citizens Committee for Quality Education says:
"Achievement levels of MPUSD children are far below national averages in reading and arithmetic according to MPUSD statistics."

FACT
Similarly, MPUSD arithmetic grade averages are ABOVE those for the state.
In grade 6 (the only figures available) the average placement in October for 1969 and 1970 -
MPUSD: 6.1
State: 5.9

FACT
MPUSD has an incredible pupil turnover - about 25% annually - which creates unbelievable difficulty in organizing reading and arithmetic programs. In addition, we have limited human and material resources. Despite these obstacles, teachers managed to raise primary reading scores an average of ten percentile points in the last four years.

FACT
The fact is, the MPUSD averages are above the California state averages. For example, 1969 reading averages (latest figuers available for state) show:

Grade	MPUSD	State
1st mean grade level	1.8	1.7
2nd mean grade level	2.7	2.6
3rd mean grade level	3.5	3.3
